

The
—100—
RICHEST INDIANS

from agrochemicals producer PI Industries, whose shares are up close to 40 percent in the past year, on strong revenues and profits. Started by his father, Pramod Singhal, as Mewar Oil & General Mills in India's lake city of Udaipur to produce edible oils, it now makes fertilisers and pesticides. He took charge in 1979 but has since handed over operations to son Mayank. Other interests include energy management firm Secure Meters.

91. PNC MENON

$1.24 billion 🇮🇳

Source: Real estate

Age: 66 Married, 3 Children

Residence: Dubai

Dubai-based property magnate

93. CHIRAYU AMIN

$1.22 billion 🇮🇳

Source: Pharmaceuticals

Age: 68. Married, 3 Children

Residence: Vadodara

Makes debut after shares of his Alembic Pharmaceuticals rose 55 percent in past 12 months, spurred by increased revenues and profitability. The maker of generic drugs, which gets more than half of its $330 million sales from the domestic market, has popular cough syrup Glycodin in its portfolio. It's now aiming to launch about 30 products in the US over the next three years. It acquired a 49 percent stake in Adwiya Mami, an Algerian drugmaker, in October. The Alembic Group was set up by his grandfather in 1907 to make tinctures

94. SHYAM & HARI BHARTIA

$1.21 billion 🇮🇳

Source: Diversified

Age: 62. Married, 2 Children

Age: 58. Married, 2 Children

Residence: Delhi

Brothers run the Jubilant Bhartia Group, best known these days for its fast-food arm, Jubilant FoodWorks, which has the Indian franchises for Domino's Pizza and Dunkin' Donuts. Pharma unit Jubilant Life Sciences saw its shares surge on strong earnings in the latest quarter. They own dealerships for Audi, Porsche and Maserati. Sold their retail arm with four hypermarkets in Bengaluru to the Aditya Birla group. Shyam's wife, Shobhana, runs her independent media empire.